COUNTY GOLD STAR MOTHER GOES TO N. Y.

Mother And Widow Are To Sail On America Next Wednesday.

FIRST TO LEAVE FROM COUNTY

Two gold star mothers and one old star widow from Adams county will visit the battlefields of France and the graves of beloved ones who died while with the American expeditionary forces during the World War.

The first to go is Mrs. Ida F. Taylor, Bendersville, who will sail on the S. S. Republic with other gold star mothers from America on Saturday. She left today for New York for the festivities that will attend the group's departure.

The others, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Bell, old star mother, and Mrs. Myrtle J. Bell, her daughter-in-law, and widow of the Rev. Albert D. Bell, lieutenant chaplain, will sail next Wednesday as the government's guests on the S. S. America from New York.

Medical Corps

Mrs. Taylor will visit the grave of her son, Harvey M. Taylor, at Rognes-sous-Montfaucon. Her son enlisted in the medical corps in 1917 and was killed in action on October 5, 1918, in the last battle of the Meuse-Argonne.

Mrs. Bell's son was a chaplain with the American expeditionary forces and died in a base hospital at foul of influenza contracted while at the front. His body lies in a grave in the St. Mihiel cemetery.

This will be the first visit for all three women to the graves of their older relatives in France. All their expenses from the time they leave their homes until they return again are financed by the United States department of war.

STATE AUDITOR HAS BIG TASK

New System Is Making Lots Of Work For Department.

Amendment of the state's fiscal code, requiring that the auditor general "check and double-check" accounts of departments of the government, boards, commissions, state-owned and state-aided institutions, and of magistrates, so far as they pertain to fines collected, imposed a task upon the department greater in magnitude than ever was given a governmental auditor or firm of public accountants, Auditor General Charles A. Waters said today.

The 1929 legislature created the auditing division in the department of the auditor general. Governor John S. Fisher, appreciating the value of a thorough investigation of all accounts, made personal request of Mr. Waters that the latter's force audit the books for the two-year period ending May 31, 1929.

Faces Big Job

At the birth, therefore, the auditing division found itself confronted with three years' accumulation of work.

Auditor General Waters' force examines the books and accounts of all teachers' colleges, penitentiaries, state-owned medical hospitals, insane asylums, schools for feeble-minded, correctional institutions, departments of the state government, state-aided institutions, boards and commissions.

The list comprises 360 individual units, not including the accounts of county officers insofar as their collections for the state are concerned, the auditing of which is in the hands of another division of the auditor general.

The accounts of 26 of the 43 state-owned institutions have been examined, and nine are under way. Of the 31 departmental accounts, 21 have been audited and six are under way. Accounts of 11 of the 16 boards and commissions have been checked, nearly three-fourths of the accounts of 270 state-aided homes and hospitals.

In the matter of magistrates' accounts, hurried examinations have been made when irregularities developed, and plans are now being completed for an audit of several thousand magisterial records.

MUSSELMAN REUNION

Last Man Keeps His Pledge

Associated Press Photo

Charles Lockwood, 87, drank a solemn toast from a bottle of Burgundy wine set aside for the occasion in 1885 to 33 vacant chairs draped in black around a weird banquet table in Stillwater, Minnesota, keeping his pledge as the last man of the Last Man's club. Lockwood and his fellows, all Civil war veterans, formed the club in 1885. The company lost a major portion of its roster in the battle of Gettysburg.

Chase Ends When Six Suspects Return Watch Taken from Auto

Four Youths Swimming Near New Oxford Stop Looting Of Automobiles And Give Six Youths Chase Until They Return Stolen Watch.

Four Hanoverians who pursued six unidentified boys in a car Wednesday afternoon after an indefinite amount of money and valuables had been stolen from their car while they were swimming in Alwine's brick yard quarry holes, at Berlin Junction, probably prevented the suspected sextet from escaping with an $85 wrist watch, the property of another swimmer, said to be from Gettysburg.

Four youths, Raymond Zepp, Robert Garvick, Harry Wildasin and Russel Shaeffer, all of Hanover, went for a swim in the quarry. Before donning their swimming attire the boys in Garvick's car removed their valuables and placed them in the coil box of the car. They then proceeded to swim. Another car was parked in front of them.

INCREASE FISH IN STATE POOLS

Fish Hatcheries Visited By Officials On Annual Tour.

Following a tour of inspection of the fish hatcheries throughout the state the board of fish commissioners today announced part of the program which will be followed in the coming year.

Extensive improvements have been authorized at the Corry and Union City hatcheries and a full year's construction program was outlined for the new hatchery at Tionesta. The first unit there has been completed and small trout are now in the ponds and will be ready for distribution next spring.

At Reynoldsville the first unit has been completed and trout also will be distributed from there next season. The board has outlined a program for this hatchery which consists of several pools through the flats below the main building. A battery station which will permit the hatching of pike perch, yellow perch and suckers also will be installed.

Under the supervision of C. R. Buller, deputy commissioner of fisheries, a series of daphne ponds which furnish food for the young fish at the Union City hatchery has been completed.

Large Crowd

A large crowd was in attendance for the closing session of the convention Wednesday evening, when Dr. M. Hadwin Fischer, of the Lutheran theological seminary here, was the principal speaker. A feature of this session was a pageant, "In the Garden of God's Love," presented by a group of about thirty young girls and women under the direction of Mrs. Edwin A. Rice, of Arendtsville.

Mr. Knouse presided at the closing session, with a song service in charge of Mr. Lady. The Rev. Ernest W. Brindle, Arendtsville, conducted the devotionals. A chorus of Biglerville voices sang.

Inasmuch as no invitations to entertain the convention next year were received, the place for the 1931 sessions will be decided by the executive committee at an early meeting.

NO PROSPECT OF RAIN HERE

Barometer Falls To Indicate Showers To End Drought.

While skies here were overcast and local thunderstorms were predicted for the southeast portion of Eastern Pennsylvania, the barometer at the office of Dr. Henry Stewart, Baltimore street, failed to show any sign of rain for Gettysburg to relieve a water shortage here and end a drought that is fast causing real damage to corn and truck crops.

The drought has continued for several weeks and while some sections of the county have had rain, no appreciable precipitation has fallen in this vicinity for some time. Moisture that was in the ground has been depleted by continued hot weather which last week-end sent the temperatures here above the 100 degree mark.

The mercury touched 95 at 2 o'clock, six degrees lower than the maximum for Monday, but still hot enough to remind Gettysburg that it is July and that August is just around the corner. Lower humidity aided in making the weather much more comfortable than over the week-end.

The prosecutor was R. J. Biesecker, McKnightstown, and the charge was the outgrowth of an automobile accident on the Lincoln highway, near Hershey Park, July 9. According to testimony, Biesecker's car was struck as it started away from the home of Walter Swisher. Northern was traveling at high speed, it was stated.

OFFICIAL IS HURT IN FALL

Investigating Noise, He Trips And Plunges Down Stairway.

T. Marshall Mehring, deputy Adams county prothonotary, was reported today to be improving nicely from the shock suffered when he made a mis-step and fell down a flight of stairs at his home along the Fairfield road, near Gettysburg, early Tuesday morning.

A physician, who was called, made a thorough examination of Mr. Mehring, but found no bones broken. The injured man suffered principally from shock and remained in bed for two days.

Mr. Mehring arose about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, to investigate a noise he heard downstairs. It is said he believed he was walking toward a bureau in the bedroom when he made a mis-step and fell down the flight of stairs.

Mr. Mehring expects to return to duty at the court house next Monday. During his absence, S. L. Allison, prothonotary, has his daughter, Mrs. Walter Leister, of Harrisburg, assisting him in the office.

OFFICIAL DEAD IN QUAKE PUT AT 1,778 LIVES

Unofficial Estimate As High As 3,235 In Italian Disaster.

WHOLE HAMLETS ARE WIPED OUT

Naples, July 24 (AP)—Government officials this afternoon expressed the fear that the earthquake death list officially given out at noon as 1,778 might be far exceeded as the count progressed. Unofficial reports said 3,235 bodies had been taken from the ruins throughout the devastated territory.

The same report said that the dead in the city of Melfi were increasing in number every hour as the work of rescue progressed.

This report said that the cemeteries in that town had been completely filled and that 200 bodies had been taken to Boggia for burial.

Rome, July 24 (AP)—Government agents today counted the dead in 85 cities and hamlets in the earthquake area and found that the known dead list was 1,778 and 4,264 known injured. The likelihood was that more victims would be taken from the ruins.

The province of Avellino contained 1,392 killed and led the list of losses over any other province.

After receiving reports of the disaster, Premier Mussolini issued an edict forbidding public or private subscription lists in aid of the victims. The government organized relief and supplied the means of burial for all victims as fast as the thousands of workers could reach those tasks.

Avellino, July 24 (AP)—Refugees from Areno, the population of which was 9,000, today described that town as a heap of ruins. Houses that were left standing, they said, must be torn down because they were tottering and unsafe.

Several hamlets in the surrounding countryside were virtually wiped out.

There were fissures in the open ground near the Ofanto river today and it was believed that if the river overflowed its banks these would be transferred into lakes of considerable size.

Naples, July 24 (AP)—Southeastern Italy tonight had counted its dead to the number of 553 in half a score of towns tumbled to ruins by a series of terrific earthquakes, which began an hour after midnight and had not ceased to vibrate Wednesday evening.

Government estimates placed the injured at more than 1,000 and the homeless at ten times that figure. Melfi, picturesque mountain city, perched perilously upon the crater of the extinct Monte Volturne, was an area of ghastly debris. Even the ancient cathedral, dating back to the ninth century, was wrecked.

Interior Towns Hit

The almost inaccessible nature of some of the areas devastated made difficult the work of succor and the enumeration of casualties. Most of the towns hit the hardest are off the beaten paths of tourists and transportation is poor.

Several supply trains have been sent to points on the railroads in the interior from Naples and hundreds of relief workers were penetrating the recesses of the agricultural area with relief for the still terror-stricken victims.

Worst Since Messina

The quake stunned all Italy. It was the worst earth shock since Messina was all but obliterated in 1908. The first tremor came an hour after midnight. Its own awful nature was supplemented by a tremendous electrical storm over virtually the whole affected area.

The intense area extended from the Tyrrhen sea to the Adriatic, but the coast settlements suffered less in proportion than the mountain populations. Naples experienced several hours of panic with many houses wrecked and scores of casualties. Among the victims in this city was the Countess de Rossi Varcas.

People in Frenzy

Never in all Neapolitan history had this classic city experienced such stark mad fright. A frenzied populace raced through the streets apparently heading nowhere.

The work of rescue proceeded as rapidly as the means available would permit. Wrecked bridges, snapped communication wires and many other obstacles had been tossed in the path of the relief workers by the upheaval of nature. The highways of the area are notoriously un-

HOUSEKEEPER ORDERED HELD

Possession Charge Against Woman Stands, Justice Shealer Says.

Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer today announced that the charge of illegal possession of liquor would be pressed against Miss Hazel Corun, housekeeper for C. Harry Eyler, Reading township horse dealer, who was held for the August term of court in $1,000 bail on the same charge, at a hearing here, Wednesday.

The magistrate announced his intention of holding Miss Corun after an investigation showed that she was part owner of Eyler's home. Bail for Miss Corun has been set at $1,000.

Charges of the illegal sale of liquor, originally lodged against the couple, were dismissed by the justice when Edgar Huff, Straban township, repudiated statements upon which a search warrant was issued, at Wednesday's hearing.

With Edwin A. Rice, supervisor of agriculture at the Arendtsville school, as chaperon, the boys will leave next Tuesday morning on the sight-seeing trip which will keep them away from home practically a month. The group expects to return to Arendtsville August 25.

All of the boys are members of the national organization known as "Future Farmers of America."

In speaking of the trip, Mr. Rice said it was not easy to maintain interest among the boys for two years, but now that the time of departure is at hand each of the group is keyed up to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. Mr. Rice gave much credit to the parents of the boys for making possible the trip.

The trip will be made in a new truck with dual pneumatic tires on the rear wheels, insuring a maximum of comfort. The group will camp along the route, making their own breakfasts and suppers.

Most Extensive

Three years ago Mr. Rice chaperoned a similar group of school boys on a motor trip through the New England States, but the present excursion is the most extensive ever attempted.

The itinerary includes visits to Morgantown, West Virginia; Columbus, Ohio; Cincinnati, Ohio; Mammoth Cave; Indianapolis, Indiana; St. Louis; Kansas City; Topeka; Manhattan, Kansas; Colorado Springs; Denver; Salt Lake City; Yellowstone park; Glacier national park; Regina; Saskatchewan; Winnipeg; Fargo, North Dakota; St. Paul; Chicago; Detroit; Niagara Falls and State College.

Husband Kills 2 Who Beat Wife

Heber Springs, Ark., July 24 (AP).—Bogge Cannon, a farmer, and his son, Jim Cannon, were shot to death at Wolf Bayou school, near here, Wednesday, and Lela Murphy, 20, is in prison accused of murder as the aftermath of an attack on Murphy's wife, a school teacher, because she attempted to whip one of the Cannon children.

Authorities said Mrs. Murphy was prevented from whipping the child by older members of the family, likewise members of her class, who beat her severely.

Bogge Cannon and his son went to the school but Murphy was there ahead of them. They quarreled and exchanged shots. A few moments later Cannon and his son lay dead on the ground. Murphy was not wounded.

Sentence Assessor For Evading Taxes

Chicago, July 24 (AP)—Gene G. Oliver, assessor of Cook county, was convicted in federal court Wednesday on three charges of evading income-tax payments. He was sentenced to eighteen months in federal prison and fined $12,500.

Oliver, a member of the Republican county central committee, was accused of dodging tax payments on an income of more than $250,000 in the last three years.

On each of two indictments he was sentenced to eighteen months in the federal prison at Leavenworth, the sentences to run concurrently, and fined $2,500 each. On a third indictment containing three counts he was convicted and fined $2,500 for each count and sentenced to six months in jail.

Coolidge To Be Asked To Write New History

Washington, July 24 (AP)—Calvin Coolidge is to be asked to write another history of the United States, and, if he consents, Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, will not be allowed to make any revision.

The former president wrote a 500-word history to be inscribed on the Mount Rushmore memorial in the South Dakota Black Hills. Borglum, carving the memorial, altered it. It was then disowned by Mr. Coolidge.

Representative Williamson, of South Dakota, secretary of the executive committee of the memorial commission, came east in September to see Mr. Coolidge. He said the former president would be requested to write the history as he chose and the sculptor would not be allowed to edit it.

Millionaire Hobo Leaves Big Estate

Cincinnati, July 24 (AP)—Nicholas Klein, for twenty-five years a friend and attorney for James Eads How, millionaire hobo who died at Staunton, Virginia, said How drew up his final will here ten days ago and left an estate of from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

"How left here for Washington, where, Klein said, he intended to lobby against an unemployment bill. Evidently, Klein added, How never reached Washington, stopping at Staunton, where he died.

While here he was offered the services of Klein's physician, who said the millionaire hobo was suffering from self-starvation.

Nephew Objects to Marriage of 73-Year-Old Princess

Paris, July 24 (AP)—Whether the Princess Amedee de Broglie, aged 73, can legally marry Don Luis de Bourbon, 42-year-old son of the Infanta Eulalia of Spain, will be decided by the tribunal of the Seine this Friday.

Don Luis, who is a cousin of the Spanish monarch and once was reported engaged to Mrs. W. E. Corey, of Pittsburgh, was last reported to have gone to his villa at San Remo.

Nephew Objects

The Duke de Brissac, nephew of Princess Amedee, formally has filed objections to the match on account of the age of the princess. He also complained of the prodigality by the princess, alleging she has squandered huge sums in the last few years. He asked that a judicial council be named to administer her property.

A Paris newspaper several weeks ago reported that Don Luis and the Princess had been married on the Italian Riviera, but this was denied. The Infanta Eulalia at the time said that her son and the princess were not married, and that she did not think they ever would be.

Plan Ridiculous

"It is all so ridiculous," said the Infanta. "Why, she is older than I am, and I can only say I am sorry for her children and grandchildren. Luis has written members of the family asking them to attend the ceremony, but I don't think I will go even if it's held, which I doubt."

Henri Torres, defender of communist agitators before the French courts, will appear for the princess. The head of the Order of Advocates, Maitre Aubertin, will appear for the Duke de Brissac.

RADIO MAN IS GANG VICTIM

Shot In Back In Hotel; Police Say Victim Extorted Money.

Detroit, July 24 (AP)—Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox announced last Wednesday that police have a sworn statement that Gerald E. (Jerry) Buckley, radio announcer of Station WMBC, slain early Wednesday, extorted $4,000 from a racketeer.

Wilcox said the racketeer, whose name he withheld, made the statement in the commissioner's office Wednesday morning. The affidavit stated that Buckley forced the unnamed racketeer into bootlegging and took money from him after he became implicated with a prosperous liquor-selling organization.

Foe of Gangsters

Buckley, political commentator of WMBC, was an avowed enemy of gangsters and outspoken critic of the administration of Mayor Charles Bowles.

Buckley was shot from behind by three unidentified gunmen as he sat in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel at 1:50 a. m. His assailants pumped eleven bullets into his body and he died shortly after being admitted to Receiving hospital.

Follows Recall

The slaying came five hours after Detroit citizens by a majority of 30,000 had voted to recall Mayor Bowles on the basis of charges that he had tolerated lawlessness. It climaxed a series of ten gangster killings in Detroit streets during the past three weeks. The effect was to arouse the entire state.

NEW FRIGIDAIRE ON DISPLAY HERE

Price Barrier Is Dropping, Making Possible Universal Ownership.

A new low priced electric refrigerator, priced at $157.50 at the factory, for the millions of average income families has been placed on display in the showroom of Flawless Electric company, local Frigidaire dealer.

"New production and engineering economies, lower raw material prices and an anticipated demand from a new class of buyers made it possible to provide an electric refrigerator within reach of these millions of average income families to which price was a barrier in the past," Herbert L. Oyster said.

An invitation was extended to the public to visit the showroom and inspect this latest electric refrigerator.

Suspect's Wife Aids Accused Man's Alibi

Washington, July 24 (AP)—The wife of Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia real estate operator charged with the murder of Mary Baker, again came to his aid Wednesday night, corroborating in detail his altered alibi.

Investigators, who for fourteen weeks have sought the man who killed the young government clerk, quoted Mrs. Campbell as saying she would stake her life on the belief her husband did not commit the murder.

Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, of the Washington homicide squad, and Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, of Arlington county, Virginia, the chief investigators, said the case against Campbell now hinged largely on further identification of his pistol.

Bandits Rob Race Office In Chicago

Chicago, July 24 (AP)—Regardless of whether the horses were running well, there were no profits in Argo, a suburb, yesterday.

Five bandits, armed with a machine gun took all the money. The bandits slipped into a handbook office in the rear of a barber shop, lined up the patrons against the wall, took $2,700 from the proprietor and an unestimated amount from the patrons.

Whenever another patron would knock at the door he was allowed to enter and then made to disgorge his money. The bandits fled in an automobile. The patrons summoned police and gave chase for a mile.

Down a suburban avenue the bandits speeded, engaging in a gun battle. The bandits finally outdistanced pursuit.

CORSICA MAY BE ISSUE OF WAR

Italians Look Wistfully Toward Isle Off Their Coast.

LEGHORN, Italy (AP)—Deep significance attaches to a tour of the island of Corsica, birthplace of Napoleon, just made by the Italian Automobile Club.

For a growing agitation is arising in Italy crying that Corsica is Italian historically and ethnologically, and must return to Italy, whether by treaty or war.

In Dispute

Corsica, Nice and Tunis would be in immediate dispute between France and Italy if war, always urged by certain sections of both nations, develops. And the prospect of gaining or losing these three possessions might well bring on a war.

The Italian Automobile Club members reported on their return to Italy, that the Corsicans were still Italians in habits, speech and point of view, but that the men, being Corsicans and therefore warlike, were flocking into the French army in hopes of military preferment.

The newspapers of Italy have not been permitted to comment on the political side of the tour, in which scores of automobiles took part. But there is little popular doubt that its organizers intended to convince the Corsicans, by means of the excursion, that Italians still had them in mind and would come to their assistance in time of trouble.

At this moment of writing, a book has been published in Rome by the Italian publicist, Nino D'Arroma called "Corsica Land of Italy." In it D'Arroma seeks to prove that the island should belong to Italy.

Corsica, third island of the Mediterranean in size, coming immediately after Sicily and Sardinia, is of great strategic importance to whichever of the two countries possesses it. For France it would serve beautifully for bases from which to attack a vital section of the Italian coast. This section includes Genoa, busiest port in the Mediterranean; Spezia, with important shipbuilding and naval yards; Leghorn, also important as a shipbuilding center; picturesque little Pisa, Orbetello and Grosseto.

Just off the coast is the island of Elba, Napoleon's place of exile, now owned by Italy. Rome itself is only 150 miles away. And just south of Corsica is the Italian island of Sardinia, from which the Italian Kings derived their title.

Trouble in 1912

In the Italo-Turkish war of 1912, when friction between France and Italy arose over Italy's seizure of some French ships, France massed troops and warships in Corsica, and then intimated to Italy that she would proceed to overrun Sardinia from Corsica. The ship seizures stopped.

Corsica has been French property since 1768. Previously, for 468 years, it belonged to Genoa. The Italian city sold it to France at about the time of the birth of Napoleon in Ajaccio, so that some dispute has arisen as to whether Napoleon was born an Italian or a Frenchman. It is recalled, however, that Napoleon, a Corsican, spoke of Italy as his native land when he made his first Italian invasion. Now the island has a population of 375,000.

A Roman bookshop is exhibiting in one of his windows a map with Corsica, Nice, Tunis and the Dalmatian coast painted red. Italy would dearly love to regain or receive these territories. But the coloring of red is appropriate, for undoubtedly much blood would flow before she could get them.

HOLD SLAYER OF 3 CHILDREN FOR COURT

Martinsburg—Taylor W. Hott, 35-year-old Martinsburg laborer, was held without bond for the action of the October term of Berkeley county court on charges of killing his three children while mentally deranged from poverty, unemployment and possibly the heat. In a written confession he said he killed them because his wife could not care for them.

The children, Gertrude, seven; Calvin, six, and Floyd, five, were found strangled in a quarry hole near Martinsburg along the Charles Town road early Monday. Hott admitted he had lured them to the pool with a promise that they might go swimming, then bound their mouths with strips of clothing and hurled them into the hole.

Hott's only answer at arraignment when asked whether he desired a hearing was, "I killed them."

FATHER TAKES BLAME FOR SON'S WILDLNESS

York—"I feel that I am responsible for my boy's wildness," said E. W. Little to Judge Sherwood in court at York Monday where Herbert Little, aged 28 years, appeared at the bar to enter a plea of guilty to felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods.

The father explained that his son has been an outcast from the family since he was five years of age when his mother died. The father remarried and it was not the desire of his second wife that the children of his first should come into his home. "The boy has never had the training that a mother could give him," said the father.

ATTACK IN WATER IS CAUSE OF BOY'S DEATH

Westminster—Supposed to have been seized by a spasm while standing in a shallow part of the private swimming pool on the W. Frank Thomas estate, a half-mile from Westminster, John J. Pershing Phillips, eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Phillips, tenants on the estate, was drowned Monday evening at about eight o'clock.

With two older brothers the lad had gone to the pool which is about fifty feet in length to obtain relief from the extreme heat. He remained at the shallow end while the other two boys were swimming in the deeper part. When they came back the child was missing. They started to grapple for him but it was 25 minutes before they succeeded in finding the body and bringing it ashore.

FOUR PRISONERS FROM FREDERICK PAROLED

Frederick—Four Frederick county prisoners were on the list of thirty-five paroled Monday by Governor Ritchie to inmates of Maryland institutions. Among those paroled was Cecelia Crebbs, a young woman who had been sentenced by the Circuit Court to serve three years in the House of Correction for assault and battery. About eight and a half months of her term remain. It was stated that the woman was of a good family, and was very repentant of her offense, and a number of citizens seemed to think she had been sufficiently punished.

Chambersburg—Identified by blemishes on his hand as the man who passed a check in $19.20, alleged to have been stolen at a tire shop, Lincoln Way West, Arthur Jones, 22 years old, of Kennedy street was arraigned before Magistrate Stover Monday charged with larceny and imposing on the person in whose favor it was executed. In default of bail he was committed to jail for a hearing.

AMUSEMENTS
At The Majestic

How can Dr. Fu Manchu appear again in the movies when he was killed off by poison in the very first picture in which he appeared?

The answer to this interesting question is found in "The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu," thrill-drama which comes to the all-talking screen at the Majestic Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

It is true that Dr. Fu Manchu appeared to have killed himself in his picture, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu"—but did he really take poison? If he did take poison was it capable of bringing death? Why didn't officials of Scotland Yard perform an autopsy to make sure that he was dead?

The cost will be $5 for the week, and any 4-H club boy interested should communicate at once with Mr. Hartman.

DAGGER

By Mary Dahlberg

SYNOPSIS: Blaine Howard, American vagabond adventurer, is rescued from some Mexican insurgents by Dagger Marley, 16-year-old niece of a Texas rancher. Howard wins the respect of old Jim Marley, Dagger's uncle, and Dick Welling, an Englishman who has come to the ranch to forget some past trouble. The paths of Welling and Howard have crossed mysteriously in the past. Dagger falls in love with Howard, but he remains faithful to a wife he does not love and joins the Allied Armies in France where later he is reported missing and probably dead. Welling leaves to join a British commission buying horses for the army. Dagger, heartbroken at the loss of Howard, visits her aunt in San Antonio. America enters the war, and Dagger plunges into a whirl of social life among the officers of a nearby training camp. One night at a dance, Captain John Vaneering, flying ace, asks to be introduced.

Chapter 9

DAGGER YEARNs FOR WINGS
Over her cousin's shoulder Dagger saw Captain Vaneering approaching.

"Do you know him then?" she asked.

"Well, of course, he's a captain, and I'm only a cadet." Willie returned, slightly embarrassed; "but he's very decent to us—Here he is! Say, Captain, I want to introduce you to my cousin, Miss Marley."

Vaneering bowed gracefully. At close view, Dagger saw that his features were unusually haggard for so young a man's; there were pouches under his eyes, and embryo crowsfeet encircled them. But he was stunningly handsome, and carried himself with a fine gallantry.

"I hope you won't think me rude, Miss Marley," he said as he shook hands with her. "I'll plead guilty to asking your cousin to introduce us."

"I shan't mind if you'll tell me about your flying," Dagger answered.

"Are you interested in flying?" And to Willie: "Oh, thanks, Sal-toun! I'll look after Miss Marley, if she'll give me this next dance."

Dagger was secretly stirred by some quality of appeal which radiated from the lean, young officer. In an impalpable way, which baffled analysis, he reminded her of Blaine Howard, a cruder, more ruthless Blaine, yet substantially the same type.

"Yes, you may have the next dance—if you'll talk," she said. "It won't be hard to talk—to you," he answered. "I feel as if I'd known you for a long, long time."

"Why are you over here, Captain?" she asked.

He shrugged his shoulders.

"I've asked to be sent back to France, but the War Department people say they need trained flyers for instruction more than for active combat work."

The music struck up, and he held out his arms to her.

"You know," he murmured, "you dance divinely. I'll bet you're a horsewoman."

"I am, but I'd rather be a flyer," she returned.

"Would you like to see me stunt?"

"What's that?"

"Trick flying—combat flying, machine-gunning, pursuit work."

"May I? Truly? I'd rather watch flying than do anything—except fly, myself."

Vaneering smiled. "Better watch, first," he advised.

"Oh, yes, but you must tell me more," commanded Dagger. "Where did you learn to fly? How were you wounded? When did you—"

"Easy," he begged. "One question at a time, please. And if you want to see me fly, be out at Kelly tomorrow morning at six."

"I'll be there," Dagger promised recklessly.

There was no sense in arousing her aunt, Dagger decided, dressing hastily in the chill of an early dawn. She slipped downstairs and chuffed off in her little roadster.

Turning in the camp gate, Vaneering hailed her from a group of officers in flying-suits.

"So you came!" he said cheerfully. "I really only half-expected you."

He pointed to a graceful biplane.

"How's that for a sweet, little ship? A hundred and twenty miles an hour she'll do. But watch!"

"Can I see from here?"

"Don't you worry," he laughed, adjusting his helmet.

Having gained altitude, Vaneering banked and turned, still climbing moderately, and suddenly, as Dagger stared enthralled, went into a sideslip. She gasped, and a mechanic close by grinned sympathetically.

"The Captain did that apurpose, lady," he confided. "But that ain't nothin'." Look at that nose-dive! Pretendin' there's a Hun on his tail, that's what he is. And see him straighten out. Hi-yi, and he does a loop!"

"He's upside down," protested Dagger.

"Sure, lady. And now he's right-side up again. Ah, he's going to try his guns."

The plane came out of the loop, and slipped earthwards in a steep, graceful dive. Ahead of it, in the middle of the field, was a white target in the shape of a trench. Vaneering swept down upon this, and the twin machine-guns mounted on his cockpit commenced to sputter.

Up leaped the biplane once more,

and soared into the blue, so high that she all but lost sight of it, re-appearing in a series of flopping, tumbling drops which sent her heart into her throat.

"Oh, he is—"

"Not him, lady," the mechanic reassured her. "Just playin', that's all. But he's through. See?"

The tiny plane had straightened out, and was sliding through the air, with engine cut out. Dagger fancied it must surely hit the ground, out of control, but Vaneering raised its nose, and it dropped easily in a three-point landing that scarcely spurted the dust from the surface of the field.

He climbed over lithely and strolled over to Dagger, lighting a cigarette.

"Like it?" he queried.

She nodded, at a loss for words.

"It was better than I expected. Of course, I've seen planes up before, but not close to."

"There's nothing like flying," he returned. "I've sailed, driven racing-cars, ridden to hounds, played polo—they're all washouts compared with sitting in the cockpit of a pursuit-ship, holding the stick with your legs, and your thumbs on the gun-triggers. And when your sights come on a Hun—Dagger, I'm telling you a fellow feels more than human."

"I wish I could fly," she said wistfully.

"Why not?"

"How?"

He reflected.

"What about your family?"

"Oh, I only have an aunt and uncle." Dagger replied with lordly self-sufficiency. "They really haven't any authority over me."

"In that case—but let me get rid of this suit. Then we might grab a bite of breakfast. I have an idea."

WHY---

the HARD TIMES?

Why is money so hard to get hold of? Why are the many people out of work? Why is the price of your produce crops, chickens and eggs so cheap? Why is more building not going on? Why is real estate so cheap? Have you not read in the newspapers where most of the big corporations and industries made more money in 1929 than ever before? At the same time the papers are publishing the fact that so many people are out of work and that there is more suffering among the poorer class than ever before. Then why does such a condition exist? Because money has been centralized in Wall Street and the foreign owned chain stores have been one of the factors in centralizing this capital, sending this money away from your community.

When you spend a dollar with your home merchant part of that dollar stays in your community where you have a chance to get it back again. It stays here and helps to build roads, streets, churches, schools, business houses, dwelling houses, factories, etc.; helps to pay the school teachers, the preachers, your welfare work, and to aid in the distress of the community. When you take the money out of the community it makes no difference what you have left it will make hard times, and when you spend your money with a store that sends every cent away you are helping to create hard times whether you know it or not. You had better stop, look and listen, for there is danger, and by and by we will all become slaves of money kings in Wall Street. Then there will be no opportunity for our children; no chance in life for them, but hard work to make a living.

Are you willing to help make your community a better place in which to live? Are you a true and loyal citizen? If you are, then do your part to help build up your community, and help those who help you? If your house was to catch fire and burn up and you had no insurance, where would you go for aid—to the chain store or to your home merchant and local business citizens in your community?

LISTEN, People of this community: The same thing that affects this section as a community affects your community. Anything that is helpful to this section of the community will help your community. Anything that is harmful and deadly to this section is also harmful and deadly to your community. Cannot the people of the community resolve to BUILD and not DESTROY their community? Then in Heaven's name, support the people of your community—the institutions of your community and keep the money of your community at home and in their reach. A united community spirit among communities created and existing for the continued success of all communities, will return good times, put more men to work, build more homes, sell more real estate and return prosperity more quickly than any other possible concerted action on the part of the people.

Worn Out... at last! after 47,892 miles

THERE IT IS, in the picture
Up above. Through! Worn out! Ready for the scrap heap! That Silvertown we showed you in one of our advertisements a while ago.

It traveled 30,000 miles with last year's Silver Fleet. Made the entire tour through 46 states without ever coming off the rim. Transferred to the 1930 Goodrich Silver Fleet . . . and punished for 17,892 more miles.

Now it's through . . . with a service record of 47,892 miles.

Proud? Naturally we're proud of it! Because we sell tires like that. Tires capable of giving unheard-of mileage.

There's nothing special about this Silvertown. Nothing out of the usual run. It came straight from stock for its grueling trip with the Silver Fleet. And it received no care . . . no attention . . . you can't give your tires.

That's why we're sure of ourselves when we say you can get mileage like this from Silvertowns. They've proved they have the stuff. Proved they can beat all comers in open competition.

Come in to see our Silvertowns. Blood brothers to this veteran of the roads. They never were expensive . . . and now, mile for mile, they're the cheapest tire you can buy. Yes, we have your size waiting for you.

THE INVALID ROSE

I have an invalid rose,
Pale, delicate and pink,
And when the cold wind blows
Plainly its petals shrink.

Neighbors admire the strong Red roses blossoming by,
And say, as they pass along,
"The little one soon will die."

They favor the hardy stock
Aglow with its crimson wealth,
Which tamespest and storm can mock
With the arrogance of health.

But my favorite rose is that pale Poor delicate bush near by Which, if my care should fail,
With the first harsh blast would die.

SUNDOWN STORIES

LIGHTS IN THE DARK

By Mary Graham Bonner

"This is the first boat to go down to the deep, deep, deep sea—as far as we're going now," said the Little Black Clock, "but I've turned the time ahead, you know, and I have plenty of magic. Everything will be all right."

Down, down they went, until they had reached a depth in the ocean where it was utterly dark. But the Little Black Clock had arranged that there should be enough air so it was not hard to breathe.

The only light to brighten the darkness of the water was the powerful search-light in the nose of the submarine. It seemed very small in such darkness.

It was very strange, very, very quiet down here. How queer it would be, the children thought, to live down here in this quiet and darkness. How strange that creatures should want to make this their home.

Now and again they saw some pointed rocks and then great deep valleys which were lighted up every once in awhile by the fishes as they made their own electricity in their wanderings.

And now more and more strange fishes were lighting up the great darkness. It was like visiting caves or dark caverns with sudden searchlights showing bits of the surroundings here and there.

As the sudden lights darted on and off the children could see how beautiful many of these creatures were, and some had huge lights that looked like the bright lights of automobiles. They saw a small sea shark which had lights along its lower surface, and which were of great help to him in feeding along the ocean floor.

And to think, as John said, that this life was going on down here,
day after day, night after night, each fish making his way in the stillness of the dark sea. They had gone along the ocean floor by means of the caterpillar wheels of the boat.

What trips the Little Black Clock could plan!

Tomorrow—"A City Canyon."

Little Jack Rabbit

By David Cory

"Howdy, Mrs. Cottontail," said
Daddy Longlegs as he stepped off his Pushmobile near the Old Brush Heap.

"Oh, I'm pretty well," answered the nice lady bunny, after taking out of her mouth a clothespin with which to hang on the line a little Cottontail shirt. "What brings you here so early in the morning?"

"Good news," laughed the old insect.

"The old lady grasshopper is engaged to be married?" asked Mrs.

Cottontail, bending down for another clothespin.

"No, guess again," replied Daddy
Longlegs, with a grin.

Dog Hill Paragraphs

By GEORGE RINGHAM

The Wild Onion School Teacher, before school was out, made a talk to the scholars on going out and facing the world. Jeff Potlock's oldest boy was present and said no matter how hard a person tried to face the world, a part of it was always bound to be at his back.

The Dog Hill Preacher had a splendid sermon last Sunday, but he had to divide time with Yam Sims' mule, which was hitched to a sapling in braying distance of the church.

Frisby Hancock, who has been having to stay out of sight for the past several months, is now just about out of debt, and has moved out on the front porch in sight of everybody.

"I'm sorry, I'll tell a bit of good news," answered the lady porcupine.
"I have two little babies hidden under this old brush heap."

"I'm so glad," laughed the sociable little rabbit.

"But you must promise not to tell anyone where I have my little home.
It wouldn't do to have Danny Fox hanging around. Not that I fear him, but one must be doubly careful when there are babies to care for."

"I promise," answered the little rabbit, and in the next story you will hear the good news, too.

Haunt of Radio Magician Is Yacht on High Seas

By ANDRUE BERDING

GENOA, Italy (AP)—The haunt of the magician of old was in a cave—but that of the modern magician of radio is on the high seas.

Abroad his yacht Electra, perhaps hundreds of miles out from shore, Guglielmo Marconi, who made radio practical, still carries on his experiments, working daily to push his development of wireless still another step onward.

Isolated though he is from land, he is in more intimate touch with the world generally than millions of land creatures. He sits at his telephone transmitter and from the Mediterranean talks with Australia, North and South America, Asia and all of Europe.

Yacht is Home
Marconi's yacht is his home.
With him travels his wife, the former Countess Bezzi-Seali. He sold his home in Rome when he purchased the Electra. This was just after the war. Since then the inventor has spent the major portion of his life aboard the ship.

Few realize the part played by the Electra in the development of wireless. The man who transmits a message from London to Australia—does he know that Marconi worked out the means for doing so?
The man in New York who listens to a radio program in Chicago—does he know that Marconi's experiments on the high seas are partly responsible for his entertainment?

In April, 1923, Marconi began experiments on short wave transmission aboard the Electra. Out of them sprang "beam" wireless, which concentrates radio waves in one direction rather than permitting them to leave the antenna in an ever-widening circle.

Many Discoveries

This is just one of the few accomplishments in which the yacht laboratory has played an important part, including one of the most recent in which the inventor conducted a two-way conversation from the Mediterranean with America as a nation of listeners were tuned

in via a country-wide broadcast chain.

Kings and queens and princes and princesses of England, Italy and Spain have visited the Electra.

THE CHAIN OF HAPPINESS

HAPPINESS is a linking together process. There are many who always seem to be happy. But we who understand know that no one is always happy. He who seems to be has merely learned the great art of arrangement.

Into a kind of Rosary we string the beads of our dreams and bring reality and beauty into one complete experience of happiness.

Only the artist himself can fully see all the days of privation, hunger, discouragement and torture of soul that forever live within his masterpiece. And so only he, who has mastered life, is able to give to the world beauty and great roundness of character in his masterpiece of happiness which the passing throng looks upon, without understanding.

Too many of us fail to look upon the sum of things as our cue for the attainment of a happy experience.

They say that concealment is art, but he who would know genuine happiness must reveal it from the depths of his unhappy days and nights.

After a day of reveling in the fields, where we have plucked many a gorgeous display of colorful flowers, the memories of weeds, rough paths, and tired backs, soon float into forgetfulness, for we have carried away only that which we have happily chosen.

That's the way with the happy life. It chooses, it selects, it links together all the beautiful sights and experiences and makes of them a chain of happiness.

The stringer of pearls must have each one perfectly matched, perfectly polished, so that there may be presented a rhythm of beauty.
And he who buys that treasure thinks not at all of the scores of pearls discarded to make the perfect string. But he who loves that string, and takes it to his heart, knows every process that made it perfect!
His is the happy life!

SEÑOR PADILLA POPULAR MAN

Spanish Ambassador In Enviable Place In Capital Life.

By Herbert Plummer

Washington—You've probably heard his voice over the radio only recently—Don Alejandro Padilla y Bell, Spain's ambassador to the United States.

Twice has he spoken over the air lately. Once he talked on the tariff bill, and his remarks echoed on the floor of the United States senate. Again he was before the microphone in a nation-wide hook-up to present Infante Alfonso de Orleans, cousin of the King of Spain.

This grave, courtly Spanish don, fast growing bald, who wears a mustache that reminds one of King Alfonso, probably is one of the most popular diplomats resident in Washington.

The second Spanish ambassador to this country, Señor Padilla first presented his credentials to the President of the United States in the autumn of 1926.

Homage

Spain's ambassador to Washington holds a unique position in diplomatic circles of the capital. That large section of Latin America, which still considers Spain as the mother country, has envoys here. And it has been the custom for them to pay special homage to the Spanish representative accredited to Washington.

That Ambassador Padilla has accentuated and centralized this devotion is evidenced by the way the republics of both North and South America participate in the Iberian exposition now being held in Seville and Barcelona.

Amiable, possessed with an almost unlimited knowledge of Spanish art and curios, and himself an enthusiastic collector of pipes, Ambassador Padilla enjoys a wide personal popularity in the capital.

The Spanish embassy on Sixteenth street, the first permanent diplomatic home which Spain has owned in the 140-odd years of her friendly relations with this country, was purchased by him, and a great part of it furnished by him personally.

Active Socially

Personal treasures which have come down through the years in both the Padilla and Satrustegui (Señora Padilla) families are to be found there.

The three Padilla children also play a prominent part in the social life of the capital.

Young Ramon, the son, is following in his father's footsteps. He came to Washington as an attaché on his father's staff, but soon returned to Madrid where he was given his diplomatic spurs. Now he is back with his father as second secretary of the embassy.

Don Ramon, a quiet, modest young man, is a bachelor. He is an excellent dancer, handles the sword with skill, and entertains with studio teas and exhibitions in his bachelor quarters.

The two daughters, Señoritas Rose and Maria, are typical of the popular conception of the dark-eyed, vivacious señoritas of Spain. They are skilled with native Spanish musical instruments and entertain frequently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parthemore, Mrs. McCord and a friend, of Harrisburg, spent Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Black.

Mrs. Lester Bowers and daughters, Margaret and Winifred, of Granite, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Deatrick.

GENOA, Italy (AP)—The port militia is campaigning against fishermen who blast big hauls from the sea with dynamite. The law against the practice is severe and ten offenders were recently given maximum penalties.

HAVANA (AP)—Taxi cab rates here are believed to be among the lowest in the world. One can ride two miles for 20 cents and there is seldom a charge for waiting time.

COPELAND IS GIVEN OPINION

Senator Gets Insight In Old Home Idea On Return Visit.

By Herbert Plummer

Washington—Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, the United States senate's only physician member, tells this story on himself:

Born and reared on a farm in scene of his birth for a visit, not Michigan, Copeland returned to the long after his election to the senate.

There being no one at the station to meet him on his arrival, the senator prevailed on a native to drive him to the old homestead in a buggy. Unknown to each other, they engaged in conversation.

"Know Roscoe Copeland, who lived in these parts?" asked the senator of his driver.

"Yep, quite well," was the laconic response.

"Ever heard of his son," the senator continued, "the one who studied medicine?"

"Yep," was the reply.

"You know the one I mean, I suppose," said Senator Copeland, "the one who was mayor of Ann Arbor for a time, then moved to New York and was made public health commissioner?"

"Just laugh."

The native assured him they were thinking of the same individual. The senator continued:

"Well, you know he is now a United States senator from New York."

"Yep, we heard all about it."

"Then, tell me," Senator Copeland pressed, determined to get more than a monosyllabic reply to his questions, "what do the people around here think of Roscoe Copeland's boy winning a seat in the senate of the United States?"

"Aw," said the driver, "they just laugh."

The rest of the trip, says Senator Copeland, was made without much being said.

They're All Alice

If Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, Washington's most celebrated bridegroom of recent months, ever gets all of his family together at one time, he will have a difficult time of it in the matter of names.

There will be too many Alices present.

The senator's baby great-granddaughter has the name of Alice. His new wife is named Alice, and her daughter's name is Alice. Mrs. Harold Smoot's name is Alice, and her daughter, Mrs. Fred Chambers, has that name.

There is an aunt named Alice. A cousin has the name of Alice. And at least two other relatives have the same name.

And there apparently are no nicknames to make the situation less confusing for the senator.

Ah! Those Stogies

Ernest Lee Jahneke, assistant secretary of the navy, has been compelled to curtail somewhat the hospitality which he first showed when he came from New Orleans.

During his first few press conferences Jahneke passed around good cigars to the newspaper boys. Word of his generosity was broadcast, with the result that attendance increased materially.

It was suspected that some came not especially for news, but for stogies. At any rate, the assistant secretary has stopped the whole-sale distribution.

Guess How Many Lubrication Points on Your Car?

For example—Buick, Serial No. 2,317,650 has 43 points requiring lubrication; but No. 2,131,476 has 51 points. It is vital to the life of your car that no points be missed when greasing is being done.

We have installed, as a part of our greasing service, "Chek-Chart," the Automotive Lubrication Encyclopedia, a volume of chassis-diagrams of every model of every car built in the last five years. It contains factory recommendations of the points to be lubricated and the kind of lubricants required. We have eliminated all guesswork from our Lubrication Service. Bring in your car and let us "Chek" it over point by point.

WALSH AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

Bishop Cannon's Refusal To Talk Puts Spot On Senator.

By Herbert Plummer

Washington—It is odd, yet true to form, that Senator Walsh, of Montana, again finds himself in the limelight as a result of a bishop's defiance of a senate committee.

Admittedly a great lawyer, an able legislator, a talented public servant, this iron gray man of the senate might even now be lost in the company of his colleagues, had it not been for incidents like the Cannon episode.

It took a billion dollar oil scandal to bring him to the front for the first time.

And while students of national affairs, his colleagues, and his intimates would know differently, the public at large might never have been aware of him as it is now.

The limelight holds no attraction for Walsh. He shuns it. At heart he is unpretentious, unassuming, even shy. There are those who think that he is cold, but there are many who have been warmed by his kindness and his sense of tact.

Grave

Trim, erect and alert, Walsh is a man distinguished for his gravity.

Whether at work or play he is serious. He seldom smiles, and his laughs are even more rare. But despite his severity, he has a kind of dry humor which can be extremely sharp.

Those who refer to him as "Tom" are prompted more by affection than familiarity. He is not the kind of man one could get familiar with. He couldn't be a back-slapper if he wanted to, for the reason that he doesn't know how.

And it is just these qualities that have kept him out of the limelight. Seriousness, shyness and reticence do not often make great popular characters.

To the outsider Walsh may appear brusque and curt. He is a pugnacious gentleman, despite his mild appearance. And all know that he is fearless, that he has tremendous courage, and that there is no sidetracking him when he takes the trail.

Yet those who know him testify to the other side of his character—a charming, gracious courtliness that wins the heart.

Able

Walsh had been in the senate only two years when a colleague said of him:

"In my humble judgment, Senator Walsh is the ablest lawyer in this body."

That opinion is shared by his colleagues today—25 years later. He is accepted as the senate's outstanding constitutional authority.

In debate he relies little on flashiness and oratory. Rather he deals with raw facts, perfect logic.

He plays as seriously as he works. When he leaves the capitol, he plays golf. In the evening he finds recreation at the bridge table with close friends, or in his library.

THIS WOMAN IN 4 WEEKS LOST 19 POUNDS OF FAT

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer, of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana, paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts.

"I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

"I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give 'Kruschen Salts' a fair trial. The day I started to

THIS IS PARIS

By Hazel Reavis

Paris—Cities are like households—they always have a few horrors on their hands in the way of art objects which ought to be suppressed and have to display them prominently.

But Paris, which isn't like other cities, has a neat way of disposing of these ugly ducklings of the studio that nobody wants.

They ship them off to trim up the provinces. When they are too bad for the provinces to swallow, the colonies are honored.

Speculation

The provinces get a great many of the paintings and statues purchased by the Luxembourg museum from painters and sculptors whom the state wishes to honor for one reason or other.

Sometimes the reason has nothing whatever to do with art. Several American painters' paintings, purchased by the Luxembourg, are in rapid circulation in the provinces. Of course the Luxembourg Museum purchases many worthy works of art by competent artists.

It is more or less the speculative buying department of the Fine Arts which obtains contemporary works for the state when they are still selling at contemporary prices.

Some of these works prove of lasting value. Others diminish in interest and value with a change in art ideas. A few represent mistakes in judgment.

Art Vs. Autos

Paris recently scrapped a few statues to make more room to park automobiles in the heart of the city.

Outspoken moderns are suggesting that the scrapping continue until most of the statuary is cleaned out.

Public opinion is generally against the forest of classic statuary that bristles in the Tuileries Gardens. Most of it is bad. Parisians generally agree. Some of it is funny and has endeared itself.

Rheumatism?

Quick relief from rheumatic pains without harm:

To relieve the worst rheumatic pain is a very easy matter. Bayer Aspirin will do it every time! It's something you can always take. Genuine Aspirin tablets are harmless. Look for the Bayer Cross on each tablet.

BAYER ASPIRIN RHEUMATISM IS PUT TO FLIGHT BY NEW KONJOLA

Lady Feared She Would Never Walk Again—Read About Her Splendid Surprise.

MRS. MARY ANDERSON

Many of the recoveries brought about by Konjola are so remarkable that they might challenge belief were the actual facts not known and verified. Take as an example, the case of Mrs. Mary Anderson, 333 Second street, Conemaugh, Pa., who says:

"I was so badly crippled with rheumatism that I thought I would never be able to walk again. This dread ailment started in my knees and went to my feet and ankles. My lower limbs were swollen and the pains agonizing. I couldn't walk, but hobbled from one chair to another. My kidneys were disordered and my back ached terribly. Six bottles of Konjola put all my pains to flight. Friends and relatives marvel at the change that has come over me."

Though Konjola does work quickly in cleansing the ailing organs and ridding the system of poisons, a treatment of from six to eight bottles is highly recommended.

Konjola is sold in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, at Murphy's Cut Rate drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

to the public by its worst characteristics.

Tens of thousands of people walk through the Tuileries gardens to and from work. For years some of them have been passing the same statues at the same hours.

Should the moderns win and deport all the Paris statues, another link with the United States would go.

At the lower end of the Ile des Cygnes, which is about a mile up the river from Notre Dame cathedral, is a copy of the Statue of Liberty, a small bronze edition of the statue which France gave to the United States.

Polish Women Try To Get On Juries

WARSAW (AP)—The women of Poland are making a concerted fight to get women on court juries.

At present jury courts exist only in that part of Poland which was in Austria before the world war, but there is a bill pending which would introduce the jury system all over the country, though women would be excluded from service.

Two recent jury verdicts have aroused the women. A jury of Lower Silesia sentenced three youths to death for distributing communist literature.

Toothpicks Come From Portugal

Coimbra, Portugal (AP)—Americans who use tiny wooden sticks to pick their teeth are dependent upon this small university town on the banks of the Mondego river for almost all of their supplies.

While the jury court of Krakow sentenced a young girl to be hung for killing her illegitimate baby, the women claim that if they had been represented on the juries such severe punishments would not have been meted out.

Cheek by jowl with the time-worn walls of Portugal's historic Alameda, are scores of small factories turning out snow white toothpicks by the million. They are shipped almost exclusively to the New World. For home consumption the factories make highly ornamental picks. These are not thrown away after having served their purpose, but are tucked into the wallet for future use.

A flock of pea-hens cackling at night in Columbus, Ohio, resulted in a hurry call from the police who were called out by neighbors to rescue "a lady in distress."

Prince Left Tower In Which King Had Once Lived.

Belleme, France (AP).—This little provincial French town in the heart of Normandy has been more excited this summer than since 1229.

Seven hundred years ago Louis IX of France was besieged in Chateau du Couesmes, two miles from here. From that same chateau Prince Carol of Rumania returned this spring to the throne of his country.

Masked behind a heavy growth of evergreen trees, a long winding lane leading to its doors, the chateau was a perfect setting for the prince, who went from exile to power in an airplane.

Used As Refuge

The chateau was bought by the prince three years ago when as a political exile, known as "Carol Caraiman," he sought a place of refuge. The prince gave the place to his companion, Madame Lupescu and in restoring it their personalities found free expression.

Both the prince and his companion were regarded here as regal figures and the peasants still talk of the prodigal hand with which the gloomy old pile was refitted. The prince has a warm place in the hearts of the country people and the inhabitants of the town of Belleme, a place of winding streets and eleventh century houses.

The tree-lined drive leading to the ancient chateau ends in a grassy court. Facing this court is the main entrance and at the right hand corner is a tower that, according to the village tradition, was a military post for Louis IX.

Tower Untouched

In restoring the chateau Carol was careful to leave this tower untouched. It stands today just as it was when gaily caparisoned chargers rather than 40 horse power limousines stood before it.

The people of Belleme relate that when the exiled couple first came to the town, Mme. Lupescu was thought to be a German school-mistress and how Nico, who played such an important part in the flight to Bucharest, was taken for Carol, "because he is so much more distinguished looking."

They hope that the gay young man who, by his smile, democratic ways and liberal spending found his way into their hearts, will again come to the old grey stone building that looks across a fertile valley to the town it was built to defend.

'BOLTING' DOES HARM TO BODY

State Official Sees Danger
In Hurried Eating
Of Foods.

Apparently not satisfied with pushing their automobiles to the utmost limit of speed, Americans are now striving to reduce the time required for eating to the minimum.

Dr. Appel said today.

"The term 'seven minute eater' is becoming more and more familiar and represents the ever growing class of noon-day restaurant and lunch counter patrons who have permitted the rush of the modern business world to impose upon their digestive apparatus," he said.

Harris Diner

"Just as the pushing of an automobile to its limit of speed inevitably results in a smash so does the bolting of food inevitably result in a breakdown of one's health.

While the rapidity of consuming provender at the midday meal in itself can shorten life, if it is consistently indulged in, the greatest objection to the practice lies in the establishment of the 'bolting habit' at all of the three meals. And it is fairly safe to say that the persistent bolter scarcely reaches extreme old age, which indeed is a very significant and sorrowful fact.

"The marked progress, in the nutritional field is one of the present-day boasts; and quite rightly so. Instead of the extenuated course dinners which daily challenged the stomach's capacity, the shorter meal with salad and lighter foods is now socially accepted and consequently popular. However, much of the ground that has been gained by the establishment of a more rational menu is being lost through the more or less general custom of hasty eating.

Many In Error

Many parents, for example, who are quite interested regarding the nutritional requirements of their youngsters, apparently forget that the same fundamental laws apply to themselves as well. Their attention to food and feeding methods is limited to the children, with perhaps the exception of warning about excess fat and the application of the misdirected attempt to remove it.
